

CENTRAL PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

CPRR INDUSTRIAL SIDING DATA

These lists show all towns on the CPRR, all sidings in those towns, industry names, car capacity and car type for each siding and a variety of other data. Each location or town is given an alpha numeric designation. C stands for Central Division; E for Eastern Division; and W is Western Division. For example, C1 is the first location or town in the Central Division; C2 the second location or town; and so on. The location numbers are in geographical order as they appear on the railroad. The total industrial siding capacity on the railroad is approximately 170 cars excluding the logging cars on the analog FMCL railroad. In addition, the classification yard at Yorktowne can support approximately 100 freight cars; and the classification yard at KNAT and the staging yard at FM can support an additional 100 cars each. Smaller yards located at Midway, Potter, Hightown and the Branch Line lower yard are used only for switching and holding purposes and are not listed but collectively can handle approximately around 10 except the Branch Line lower yard can hold 14-18 cars depending on length. Passing sidings are listed on page 10-2.
